MAKE SOME DYN-O-MITE DINO EARRINGS OR A KEYCHAIN PENDANT!

DINO EARRINGS

What You Need:

These work with any small, soft, plastic toy (I've used little fish, butterflies and frogs, myself).

Jump rings

Pliers

Earring Wires

Drill

First, drill a hole through a sturdy place in the dinosaur with a small drill bit. Be careful with the drill (I use a small battery-powered drill that can't do much damage to skin but works great for crafts). Be aware of how the toy will hang once it's an earring.

Second, slip a jump ring through the hole and close it. I use 10mm jump rings. They are big enough to maneuver around the contours of the dinosaur, plus they are really easy to open and close with pliers or hands. I like to use more than one jump ring, it gives the earrings a more interesting look.

Third, take small jewelry pliers and open the loop on the earring finding. Put the top jump ring into the loop and close it up. And tada! You are done! These are great little gifts for stockings, or to put on top of larger packages.

KEYCHAIN PENDANT

What You Need:

2 Chain nose pliers

Stringing material: Softflex, Fireline

Beads: Firepolish beads, novelty shape beads, 6/0 seed beads

Findings: bead cups, crimps, clasp

I bet you might have a really cool keychain you got on your travels, and only have so many keys that need keychains. This is a great project for those items! First, find a keychain that you love! Use pliers to open the jump ring for the charm of the keychain. Be sure to open the jump ring by twisting your wrists, versus pulling it open. Take the chain off the jump ring attaching the keychain charm and close the jump ring. Now you have your pendant ready! Get some stringing material and an assortment of beads that match or contrast your focal pendant. String the Focal Pendant aka your cool Keychain treasure. Now, start to load up your stringing material with beads. I chose to make the necklace with multiple strands. Depending on your stringing material, you can finish off your necklace by tying a knot, or you can use some findings to finish the string, then just add a clasp! It's a fun project. Now you have a really cool piece of jewelry that has a special meaning to you and has great memories!
